Appeal submission from refusal

Dear Sir,

Reference is made to the refusal as issued by the Planning Authority; copy attached.

Reference is made to doc 65b and which document includes the names of the two families living in the said buildings.

The main and only reason as to why the Planning Commission has refused this application is on the basis that no adequate proof that the buildings were residential has been submitted.

It is considered that the electoral register submission indicating the particulars of the people living in these buildings is deemed sufficient proof.

Concluding, we are kindly requested that the EPRT reviews the said decision in the light of the said submissions indicating that the buildings were habitable. Further documentation and testimony from public entities, the applicant and his family, and the relatives of the persons listed in the electoral register may be submitted should the need arise during this EPRT appeal.

Attached please find EPRT payment.

Regards
